➔ Attach on a separate sheet describing why this person is a good candidate for Scoutmaster of the Year. Areas that you may want to address include how the Scoutmaster uses the 8 key methods to deliver the aims and promises of Scouting through the Troop.

The 8 key methods are:

- Advancement: Self-reliance-ability to help others-challenge;
- Ideals: Oath - Law - Motto – Slogan;
- Patrols: Peer groups-elected representation-activities;
- Outdoors: All outdoor programs;
- Adult Association: Image-role model-example;
- Personal Growth: Good Turn-service projects-religious emblems;
- Leadership Development: Leadership skills and practice-citizenship;
- Uniform: Commitment to aims-identity

The three aims of Boy Scouting:

- Growth in moral strength and character;
- Participating citizenship;
- Development in physical, mental, and emotional fitness;

The five promises that the BSA makes to each Scout:

the great outdoors; friendship; opportunities to work toward the Eagle rank; tools to do your best as a citizen, a student, and a member of your family; and experiences and duties that will help you mature into a strong, wise adult.
